EDITORIAL

Nixon's resignation supposedly spared the country and the government much additional grief and it looked as if Watergate was finally out of our lives. Without a doubt, President Ford has opened the door again and the Watergate issue has re-appeared.

When Ford pardoned Nixon, he permitted Watergate to again capture the headlines. The courts are now in the process of deciding whether or not it is in the President's power to give clemency before the defendant has been indicted. Can Ford pardon Nixon before he has been accused of anything? I hope not.

The pardon is the biggest rip-off since the United States raped Viet Nam. Nixon was chosen by the people of this country for the most powerful position in the world. The people put more trust in him than in any other man. Nixon used that power and trust to better his own lot, and it looks like he got away with it.

Ford put the Presidency above the law. He pardoned Nixon even while other men are serving prison terms for their parts in the Watergate fiasco. This is hardly justice. What makes Nixon so special? Why was Nixon forgiven as the evidence against him became most condemning? The only feasible reason is Nixon's health. The reports from San Clemente are sketchy and come from such sources as Julie Eisenhower's best friend. We may be in for another cover-up. At any rate, Nixon's phlebitis doesn't look fatal.

President Ford has decided to leave many questions unanswered. He has cheated the country out of knowing what Nixon's role in Watergate was. This is not justice. The government spent a lot of time on T.V. trying to get to the bottom of the story. Ford slapped every board and committee right on the face.

This act of Ford's has unleashed the debates, arguments, and court proceedings. If it is an example of future White House stupidity, the country may never recover.

Dear Carbon:

Nixon has been forced out of office, probably into obscurity, and I'm sure even conservative Marian College sighed some relief in this president's fall. Most conservatives probably think (I am assuming here that conservatives do at one time think) that the country is now off and running in the right direction with Jerry Ford. For you who think so I say you are foolish. Foolish in thinking that Ford's administration will somehow differ drastically to that of his predecessor. When the Nixon administration was rapidly crumbling Ford stood mute, speaking only to reaffirm his confidence in the president. Now Ford makes a dramatic switch, promising that his administration will be open and nonpartisan. One of Ford's first acts as president was to pardon Richard Nixon, besides this being an insult to the Judiciary process, Ford will not tell the American people why the pardon was granted, hardly an open administration. One of Nixon's greatest criticisms was his favoring big business. If the Nixon administration and big business were engaged, with Ford the marriage is now complete. Is not the name Rockefeller and big business synonymous? Incidents as the "milk fund" are minor compared to what we may expect.

Some say that Rockefeller will bring new ideas into the administration. Wasn't it Rockefeller who pushed through one of the most archaic drug laws in this country, wasn't it Rockefeller who sent troopers into Attica bringing about a senseless massacre? If these are any indication of the new ideas Rockefeller can add to the administration, then I feel Nixon was but a warning to the catastrophe that lay ahead. Ford and Rockefeller are illusions, they hide behind a wall of fictitious promises and fairy tale characters. If the American people fail to see the truth behind this administrations facade, we may soon be living under a republican tyranny as we have never known before.

Dear Carbon:

To all Freshmen Women of Clare Hall, hopefully through this letter I will be able to reach many of the Clare Hall freshmen and clear up a misunderstanding you might have gotten recently. Last Sunday the Clare Hall board decided to close the front lounge to men, the reason being, the women wanted to watch "Fiddler on the Roof" in such indecent apparel as bathrobes. (It is common knowledge that a Clare Hall woman in a robe is enough to dangerously arouse even the most civilized of men). I am afraid that the freshmen women might have misunderstood the Clare Hall boards action and gotten the impression that women of Clare and men from Doyle do not get together and mingle, etc. This is not true, it is a biological fact (in most instances) that men and women are attracted to each other and seek out each others company. I am sure that the Clare Hall board is also attracted to members of the opposite sex i.e. men. Next week there might be an open house at Doyle Hall, a chance for all women (freshmen) to see that

Doyle Hall does not discriminate against sex. I'm sure you might hesitate walking into Doyle Hall, fearful that a wing-rep may turn you into the board as a heterosexual. I know most of the Clare Hall board members (nothing physical) and am sure fears of this kind are unwarranted. Clare Hall and Doyle Hall can get together. I am counting on the Freshmen of Clare to work with Doyle Hall, meet the men, start a man-woman relationship maybe you'll set a precedent.

Dear Carbon:

Before I even start this letter, I'd like to say a few words. I want this letter to be taken as constructive criticism. I'm not gettin down on people for my own enjoyment, but rather for the benefit of the school as a whole. Well, it all happened on registration day, 1974. I got over to Marian Hall at the designated time that was given to me by the switchboard operator - that sweet thing! I like her because she's the only person who gave me a correct answer all day! So, when I got into Marian Hall, I went straight to the bulletin board. I searched out the room number where I was to go, and trudged up to the second floor. I went into the room, and was greeted by Mr. Kempf who told me I had to go up to Room 314 and get my forms. I then proceeded to the third floor and room 314. When I got there the nun asked me my grade level, which I told her, and in exchange I got my envelope. The nun then told me to go down one floor, and do not pass GO. Finally I was in the right room, and I sat down to fill out those carbon copies. I'd like to pause for just a minute to ponder this bewildering situation. Now, why did the sheet on the bulletin board tell me to go to a room on the second floor, when it should have said the third floor. That's strange? Of course, I could also ask - why, couldn't they have the appropriate envelopes in the designated rooms where they were to be filled out? This seems a little trivial but these little things tended to mount up after a while. The next pitfall, the registrars office really got to me. If you upper-classmen remember, we always have to pre-register before we end the school year. Now, I ask you, why? I got my schedule out of the envelope, and when I looked at it, I almost lost my head. When I preregistered I had nine hours. Just think, in three months, the registrar lost seven of my hours! That's a drag, to come back to school and find out I have to set up a new schedule. I know for a fact, that mine wasn't the only schedule that needed revamping. Due to the lack of organization on the part of the registrar, the student advisors were swamped with messed up schedules. The registrar could have at least informed the students that their schedules were in conflict. A letter was never sent to me, and I doubt anybody else got one either. The people in the registrar's office could have at least sent the adequate information in order for me to set the schedule up, yet, I received nothing. Oh, by the way, it took me two and one-half hours to register. To the registrar's office: I thank you - for NOTHING!!!

Dear Carbon:

In the field of generalized bitching, everyone has a favorite topic. Depending on who you ask, it's the hippies, newsmen, big business, police, etc., that are causing our problems. Though these groups or institutions are indeed responsible for some of today's problems, each at the same time serves a useful function. It seems that the bigger the contribution a group or institution makes, the bigger are the problems it causes. There is one group that society seems to have overlooked. This group is well respected and is depended upon to make one of the largest contributions to society. Yet this same group, through its callous materialism, is perverting mens thoughts everywhere. This group is commonly referred to by the public as scientists. Now, no one can ignore the enormous material benefits that the fields of natural and medical sciences have contributed to mankind, and when scientists concern themselves with science, the benefits are great. Because of the many great successes science has achieved, however, the public has begun to accept scientific authority and attitudes. These attitudes are being applied to problems where they are inappropriate and the resulting answers are destructive rather than constructive. Two areas of science that are called upon most often to answer in areas where they are incompetent are psychology and sociology. Through their misunderstanding of the nature of man and their insistence that happiness can only be found in material things they have instilled in this society a false view of reality (materialism) on a nearly unconscious level. It is here that the damage is done, for once an individual accepts their view of reality he must base his actions upon it. In doing this he basis his goals and dreams on something that does not exist. In this way a man can pass through life accepting illusion as the real, perhaps seeing the emptiness of what he is pursuing, yet unable to see any alternative lifestyle as acceptable.

So now is the time for people to start bitching about the source of our problems ie. ourselves. Until we stop encouraging science from feeding us their line of bull we can expect them to continue to think of man as intelligent rats.

THE FRIESEN REPORT

As we reflect back on our once rejected career in the field of journalism, we realize that even in those days of trying to make a buck in this over-crowded field, deadlines held no terror for us, until the end. True we formulated ideas, some of them great, from the start but the actual bursting forth of artistic talent held off until the bitter end. Unfortunatly our bad habits have not diminished. So here it is almost midnite and we are just sitting down to the iron-maiden (type-writer).

Needless to say we didn't come here to talk about pressing deadlines and threatening editors. We came to talk of (cont. on next col)

food and specifically about the food here on Marian's campus. Wednesday nite we had what we had anticipated to be a small get together at the Perc. One thing led to another and I stumbled out of the Perc at midnite half dead (and the worst part is, I hadn't even had a drink). Ah well, such is the price of gastro-nomic entrepeneurism (two six-bit words in a row).

As a little aside to a few of the members of the Marian community, we offer these words. "A few doubting-thomases told us that we were crazy to put in, 'Cartoon Glas-es' ". They informed us that college type people would, "never go for something so childish." Tweety-Bird (I thawt I thaw a putty tat), the second in our series sold, out the first night it was for sale. That is one hundred and eighty glasses in under three hours. Bugs Bunny will be with us soon.

For the present and the future: the game room is shaping up. We've added air-hockey, within the week we will have foos-ball and before long we should have a second pool table. Ping Pong balls are in. We look for the table to be in good condition with-in a week or so but it is playable now.

What do you think of a Coffee House in the Perc? Speculation is that it would go over well on a weekly basis. Free coffee and anyone who wants to do his own thing... just keep it clean. (Next week we will tell you of a professional guitarist appearing in the coffee house next week.)

To avoid the editorial comment of last week's issue, we're going to cut this short. (Besides I want to go to the Mug Rack) Just want to close with God Bless and a reminder that we would like to see you at the Junior Class, "Get together at Perc". Peace,

Dave

We left Ms. Squirrel with a certain sadness in our hearts: She was so wonderful, she will always remain in our memories.

Three days and two flat tires later, we happened across a lonely hitch-hiker. We thought it very strange that he was hitching a ride in the middle of nowhere; he thought it strange that we were driving a pink Mercedes Benz. He was a very witty fellow; he said "If everyone in the U.S. drove a car like this we would be living in a pink carnation!" Well, I guess you had to be there to get the full effect of the humor. Anyway, his name was Oscar.

We decided to stop and get gas. Oscar said, "this is a gas." Since the tank was loaded, we decided to get loaded too, but Oscar said, "smoking is one big drag" and then explained it was only a pun. So Oscar joined us in our shenanigans.

We were in the mountains now and we happened to turn off the road for a minute because Oscar wanted to "water the trees". While watering the trees and discussing environmental policies with a bear in a funny hat and overalls we chanced across an old sign saying 'Cadillacio - 2 miles'. Oscar said he read a story telling of the land of Eldorado, and it was a very strange place. We pointed out to Oscar that Cadillacio was not Eldorado, nor was Eldorado (continued on next page)

necessarily Cadillac, or what ever the case may be.

Oscar said, "huh?" We vociferously agreed and continued on our magical mystery tour?

ANNUAL COMPETITION FOR OVERSEAS STUDY TO

CLOSE SOON

In May, 1974, the 1975-76 competition for grants for graduate study abroad offered under the Mutual Educational Exchange Program (Fulbright-Hays) and by foreign governments, universities and private donors was officially opened by the Institute of International Ed.
Now, only a few more weeks remain in which qualified graduate students may apply for one of the 550 awards which are available to 52
countries.

Most of the grants offered provide round trip transportation, tuition and maintenance
for one academic year; a few provide international travel only or a stipend intended as a partial grant-in-aid.

Candidates must be U.S. citizens at the time of application, hold a bachelor's degree or it's equivalent by the beginning date of the grant, have language ability commensurate with the demands of the proposed study projects and good health. Preference is given to those between 20 and 35 years of age.

Application forms and further information for students currently enrolled in Marian College (or university) may be obtained from the campus Fulbright Program Adviser Sister M. Rachel Schulte, who is located in the Registrar's Office. The deadline for filing applic. on this campus is Oct. 11, 1974.

CAN YOU GIVE?

For about the past two months, there has been a regional shortage of blood available for surgery patients, hemophiliacs, and those individuals that rely on kidney machines.
Many people are not aware of the benefits of donating which include, a family or business assurance plan which guarantees free blood
if needed, and a regular check-up on your good health which is done each time you donate.

At this time the need for blood is outweighing the donors. If you have the time and the stamina to give, Central Indiana Regional Blood Bank is located on 29th and Meridian.
The entire process takes no longer than 45 minutes, with free juice and cookies afterwards, and if your blood is a particularly rare type you can agree to donate every 8 weeks. A single donation may be used in four different ways to help four different patients. This is one type of donation that does not hurt the pocket.

MORE GRIPES

Well, over here at Doyle the sheet company started out right. Last Wednesday was sheet night and we get a call saying "Sorry Charlie".
So whats another week on sticky sheets?

That other paper, The Phoenix, printed an article telling about Virgos. At the end they listed the famous Marian Virgoans. Welp, I think that if they were to list some they might as well list them all. The three I know of are: Carlos Barbera, Mel Arnold and Tom "T.C." Cebulko.

It was brought to my attention that Clare pulled a boo-boo. They closed the lounge to men last Sunday so the ladies could come down
in their PJ's and watch Fiddler on the Roof.
One of the few times we had a chance to be like a liberal school --and we blew it.

Oh, by the way, those funny looking bald dudes you see hiding around the school are only the basketball jocks.
